The background of the image is a busy airport terminal, likely Haneda Terminal 3, filled with a large crowd of people. In the center, there is a tall clock tower with a large circular clock face at the top and a smaller analog clock below it. To the left of the clock tower, there is a sign that says "Information" with a directional arrow. To the right, there are some electronic displays or information boards. The calendar is overlaid on the upper right portion of the image.
